The Inline Group Reports More Than 400 Hires in 2017

"The Inline Group is proud to report that in 2017, we matched 5,996 candidates to our clients' opportunities, resulting in 491 confirmed hires in 2017," announced Kelli Mulloy, President.

The Inline Group (TIG) provides candidate marketing, sourcing, screening, and matching services to clients in all sectors across the United States. Our technology-driven, people-powered process is specifically designed to match candidates to our clients' open positions, and provide a candidate pipeline for internal recruiters.

TIG is an alternative to retained, contingent, and database companies which allows organizations to continue to control their recruitment process, while receiving marketing, sourcing, and matching services.

"Our clients take control of the candidate and the recruitment process after the initiation of the first contact. We think of ourselves as the "Match.com" of physician search. We set up the first date and the recruiter takes it from there," said Mulloy.

"Because we do not follow candidates through the process and receive no placement fee, our clients do not always report hires to us. However, in 2017 they confirmed 491 hires. We are very proud of our partners and their success rates," said Chris Mathew, COO of TIG.

"We want to thank all of our clients for their commitment to the process and to working so hard to interview and place candidates at their organizations. Without their efforts, time, and attention to the details we could not begin to see this success," said Mulloy.
